NOTICE.

TWO WHITE CHILDREN were found during the early part of this month with a company of gipsies at Dharwar. One is a girl, aged about 6 years, name Gangawa; has white flaxen hair and brown eyes and speaks a little Canarese and Telegu. The other is a boy, about 4 years old, named Faktra; has also white flaxen hair and blue eyes.

Gangu, one of the gipsies, very dark in complexion, declared at first that these children were his wife's by a European soldier, and afterwards that they were his by his own wife, named Yenki, also dark in complexion. It is presumed these children are probably the offspring of a European soldier, and kidnapped from some one of the large military stations in Southern India.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 22.

THE London telegrams of yesterday's date still quote Consols at 99¼ and French Rentes at Fcs. 119. Indian Government Securities are unchanged at Rs. 78½ for Fours and Rs. 84½ for Fours-and-a-half.

The decline in Oriental Bank shares reported in Thursday's telegrams appears to have been owing to unfounded reports, a reaction has soon set in, and they are up to £21 per share again.

In the London General Produce markets yesterday Coffee was quoted 1s. per cwt. lower, Plantation Ceylon now being at 90s. and Good Ordinary Native 64s. per cwt., and Mysore at 70s. per cwt. Cocoanut Oil was unchanged at £31 10s. for Ceylon and £34 per ton for Cochin. Copper was again observer, being quoted at £66 per ton for Braziers. Seeds were steady.

The Manchester Piece Goods Market yesterday was unchanged at last Friday's quotations. The Cotton market in Liverpool was quiet at previous prices on the spot, but Mid. Uplands for forward delivery was 1-32d. per lb. lower. To-day the market is reported to have been unchanged, but the sales only amounted to 3 000 bales, and Mid. Uplands and Good Brooch have declined 1-16d. per lb., other descriptions unchanged.

The following is our usual weekly comparison of the position of the staple with the last two seasons, from which it will be seen that the total visible supply is reduced by 50,000 bales, which we take it is correct, notwithstanding an increase in the stocks, and the quantities afloat as the figures telegraphed last week were evidently incorrect.

Total supply of all kinds.	2,440,000	1,291,680	2,287,800

New York telegrams of yesterday still d Mid. Uplands on the spot at 11 13-16 per lb., but Futures were 13 cents per lb. lower. To-day's telegrams report ready Cotton unchanged, but an advance of 07 cents per lb. in Futures. The following are our usual weekly figures showing the receipts, &c., of Cotton at the U. S. Ports for this and the past two seasons :—

	1880.	1879.	1878.

BAR SILVER in London yesterday and to day has been unchanged at 52½d. per oz.

EXCHANGE.—Very little has been doing here to-day, as in addition to the ordinary indisposition shown to enter into large transactions on mail day, less has been done than usual in anticipation of Monday's holiday. Rates have been steady at Friday's rates, both here and in Calcutta and we can only repeat our quotations, viz :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 8d.	per Rs.
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 8¼d.	"
Credits 2 do.	1s. 8¼d.	"
Documents 3 do.	1s. 8 9-32d.	"
France 3 do.	2 13¼	"

On Calcutta demand drafts are still quoted at 1-16 per cent premium, and 60 days' sight bills at ½ per cent. discount.

GOVERNMENT PAPER.—The feeling to-day has been easier again, and rates have given way 1-16th. We quote :—Fours at Rs. 94 1-16 and Fours-and-a-half at Rs. 100 15-16.

SHARES.—There has been very little change in this market to-day. Bank of Bombays continue in good demand, and in Land Companies, Colabas and Port Canonings are enquired after. Press shares are unchanged. Spinning and Weaving Companies are fairly steady, and Dhurrumsees have advanced Rs. 5, New Great Eastern Rs. 15, and Orientals Rs. 10 per share. In Miscellaneous Companies the only change is an advance of Rs. 25 per share in Kurrachee Landing and Shipping Company.

COTTON.—We have had an exceptionally dull day, and the reported transactions have been confined within the smallest possible limits. Dealers are firm, and the rates now current here are so far in advance of the prices ruling in European markets, that buyers have almost withdrawn from operating, and the few purchases reported are, as a rule merely on dealers' account. The arrivals continue on a free scale; yesterday's amounted to 8 261 bales, of which 2 744 were Oomrawuttee descriptions, chiefly from Ba sue, Oomrawuttee, and Sheswaum, and the supplies from these districts, while a month ago were reported to be almost exhausted, will, nevertheless, it appears, continue on a liberal scale up to the rains. We quote :—

Good Oomra	Rs.	212
F G F.	"	203
Good Broach	"	239
" Dhollerah	"	215
F. G. F.	"	205
F. G. F. S. G. Dharwar	"	206

LINSEED is steady but unchanged at Rs. 6-6 per cwt.

RAPESEED is in moderate demand at Rs. 5-4 per cwt.

FREIGHTS.—The market is excessively quiet for immediate shipment with rates offering freely for Liverpool via Canal at 35s. per ton without finding takers. Cape Freights keep firm at 43s. 9d for ready and 42s. 6d. per ton for early June shipment. For the Continent several rates are offering, and for Marseilles and Genoa some are reported at 40s., and for Trieste and Venice at 45s per ton, freight paid here per.

PIECE GOODS continue very dull, and so far as the markets in the East are concerned no improvement is likely to originate before the rains; and it is to Manchester also we have before the rains; for a better state of things than now exists. The best local makes are still in active request at prices.

COLONEL JUSTICE has been ordered by the Secretary of State for India to vacate his appointment of Assistant Adjutant General, Mhow division.

WE have never been able to make out why the cost of Reuter's news service has been enhanced, while the intelligence the bold Baron condescends to give in return for the payments made gets smaller by degrees and beautifully less. The Statesman has been at the pains to compare the amount of telegraphic news given when the rate was reasonable, with that which is vouchsafed, now that the rate is exorbitant, and the result is depressing. Says the Calcutta paper:—

We think the Indian Press and public have grave reason to be dissatisfied with Reuter's telegram service as at present conducted. In 1876 the Indian newspapers were paying the Company Rs. 300 per mensem for telegrams. Now we pay Rs. 400 monthly, and while the quantity we receive is very much less than we were receiving four years ago, the quality has not improved. We have had the curiosity to refer to the files of the Statesman for 1876 and compare the number of messages sent to us by the Company in March, April, and May of that year, with the amount we have received so far in the corresponding months this year. Confining our calculations strictly to general news telegrams, and excluding all commercial messages and telegrams advising steamer movements, we find that whereas in March 1876 we published nearly 600 (about 590) lines from Reuter, in March of this year we published 476 only; that in April 1876 we published over 500 (about 510 lines) and last month 414 only; while in May 1876 no less than 940 (nine hundred and forty) lines of general news appeared in our columns, against 183 (one hundred and eighty-three) lines received during the first half (to the 15th) of the present month of May, or say, 366 for the whole month! Against these figures, which can be verified by any one on reference to our files, we have to place—what? The fact that the Company's telegrams are at times really misleading, as we lately demonstrated, and that every few months a demand for an increased rate of subscription is put forward. In June 1877 the Company intimated that the rate, which up to that time had been Rs. 300 a month, would thenceforward be Rs. 350. The newspaper proprietors accepted the enhanced rate from July 1877, and, taking advantage of the position, the Company in June 1878, again increased the rate to Rs. 400, and at the same time actually held out a threat that it would probably be further increased to Rs. 450. The fact is Reuter has come to think that the Indian Press cannot do without him, but he is playing a losing game. Subscribers to the commercial telegrams are by no means satisfied with the service, and the commercial community may see the advisability of combining with the Press to effect the establishment of a new company.

The Rs. 400 spoken of in this para. is increased in our case to Rs. 500, as our London Correspondent desires to see what is sent out from London to Bombay; a glance at the duplicate of the telegrams sent is a favour for which Reuter has the conscience to charge an additional hundred a month. We would not complain of the heaviness of the charges if better value were given for the money. But Baron Reuter's Company, Limited, has the fault of the Dutch, who give you too little and ask for too much.

WE regret that through an error of the printers an item of news, mentioning that Dr. Blanc had gone like many others to Matheran for a few days found its way amongst the advertisements on Monday last. This very naturally annoyed Dr. Blanc and surprised his friends. The affair was entirely due to an accident, for which Dr. Blanc is in no way responsible.

IT is said by a Calcutta contemporary that Mr. Lalmohun Ghose has been requested to be a member of the Cobden Club

BRIGADIER GENERAL MACSY has arrived at Rawalpindi and assumed command of the Brigade. The Civil and Military Gazette hears that he was most heartily welcomed on his arrival.

IT has been decided to allow a certain number of commissions in Her Majesty's regiments of the line to be competed for by gentlemen cadets studying at the Royal Military College of Canada, at Ottawa.

SIR EDWIN JOHNSON, as Curtius, leaping into the gulf of financial deficit, with Lord Lytton and Sir John Strachey applauding the act, forms the subject of the cartoon in the last number of Charivari.

THE Bombay Catholic Examiner:—The Rev. Dr. Pagani, Bishop Vicar Apostolic of Colombo, has selected for his Vicar-General the Very Rev. C. J. B. Fernando, the first Ceylonese who has been raised to this important post, in the same manner as he was the first Ceylonese raised to the Priesthood.

THE London Spectator is of opinion that Lord Lytton should not have been made an Earl, for he has been a poor Viceroy. He is the only great officer whom the Leaders of Opposition declared worthy of immediate recall. And his invasion of Afghanistan in order to annoy Russia is of all the acts of the late Administration the most base and the one which the country has most specifically condemned. It is very doubtful even now, when a new Ministry will be in possession of the secret history of that transaction, whether it will escape formal Parliamentary censure, and whether one incident in particular, the transportation of Yakub Khan, will not be openly annulled. To award Lord Lytton a special honour is to defy public opinion in a very marked way, and to make the Sovereign an assistant in the defiance. The censure of the whole country, directly consulted on the subject, ought not to have been set aside as if its judgment had been a mere delusion." The Spectator, it may be added, enjoys the confidence of Mr. Gladstone and other Liberal leaders, so that the hint about Yakub Khan has some significance

THE Lahore paper says that few who have not made the subject a special study are aware of the fearful prevalence of poisoning to be met with beyond doubt to the facilities afforded to the public to purchase bazaar poisons. A case has come to our knowledge in which, along with the viscera of a poisoned man, were forwarded to the chemical examiner several parcels—discovered in the house of the supposed murderer—of pure white arsenic, sufficient in quantity to destroy some thousands of human lives. Yet this pernicious stuff is sold without restriction to all comers. Medical men at home are now agitating for the addition of some more stringent clauses to the Pharmacy Acts, especially on the ground of the danger to human life involved in the sale by grocers and other unqualified persons, of patent preparations of chloroodyne and chloral, containing poison in doses above pharmacopœial strength. These medicines are freely used in India, and are generally, but most erroneously, supposed to be harmless. When shall we have a Pharmacy Act for India, which, while diminishing the risks of accidental death, shall render the arts of the village poisoner as dangerous as they now are safe.

THE Times of April 30 has the following paragraph which we reproduce for the benefit of the medical profession in India:—The disease known as elephantiasis, in which, chiefly, the legs and feet are affected, becoming rough, scaly, and swollen to great size by serious infiltration, the skin growing thick and insensible, is frequent in Brazil. It is common to resort to a remedial treatment of it by compression, but this is found to give but slight relief; nor do certain surgical processes, as ligature of the principal artery of the limb, appear to have been successful. M. Monoyvo a short time ago conceived the idea of trying electricity on the disease. He at first used only incused currents, and obtained, in several patients, a considerable diminution of the leg and thigh, but not complete cure. The method was, however, on consideration by MM. Moncorvo and Aranjo, changed to a combined use of induced and continuous currents, and this is said to have entirely removed the infirmity in a number of cases. The continuous currents appear to have the effect of softening and to a certain extent liquefying the indurated tissues, while the intermittent currents cause a reabsorption of the tissues thus prepared.

THE Amrita Bazaar Patrika remarks that the Indian Association took the imprudent step of throwing itself into the arms of the Liberals. This the Association had every right to do, but it was a grievous blunder to drag the country behind it. The speeches delivered at the meeting, and the memorial which is proposed to be submitted, will provoke the hostility of the entire body of Conservatives. In a memorial to Parliament, composed of two parties, it simply betrayed a want of taste, nay of good sense, to bolaud one party and abuse the other. Such a memorial may do well for a Liberal demonstration, but will never do for suppliants of favour. We think the Liberals even would not like the tone of the memorial, especially that of the speeches. They might have urged their prayers without offending any party. It is true the Liberals have the majority, but no Government will venture to take any step in the teeth of the unanimous protest of the Opposition in matters which relate only to India. As to the prayer of an equitable distribution of costs of the Afghan war, the memorialists only take the needless trouble of preferring a request which has already been granted. The memorialists, besides, argue the question in a queer fashion. They say that under the terms of the 55th section of the Government of India Act, the British Exchequer should bear the whole cost of the Afghan war. After proving this they then pray that the costs might be equitably apportioned!

THE Pall Mall Gazette has the following:—"An execution which took place at Washington on the 2nd April, the first since 1873, appears to have excited an unusual sensation in that city. The culprit was a 'bright mulatto man,' who had been convicted of murder. The gaol authorities, it is stated, regarded the sad event as a 'necktie sociable,' and issued invitations to a select circle to be present on the occasion. These invitations were signed by the warden of the gaol, and were as follows:—'Sir,—You are respectfully invited to be present at this gaol on Friday, the 2nd of April, at twelve o'clock, to witness the execution of James Madison Wyatt Stone.' The culprit was most carefully dressed for the exhibition. He was attired in a double-breasted frock-coat, light trousers, and his shoes bore an extra coat of blacking. His chin was cleanly shaven leaving a moustache and side whiskers. His hair was combed with faultless taste.' After a religious service and a hymn he took his place on the scaffold. The spring was touched, the drop fell, and a moment later the head of the unhappy man rolled on the ground completely severed from his body. The doctors present, one of whom picked up the head, expressed their opinion that decapitation could not have been more neatly effected by the knife. The invited guests being unprepared for the spectacle in this form, were rather taken aback, and some of them who rushed to the spot when the contretemps occurred were 'visibly affected.'"

THE Bombay Catholic Examiner considers Victor Hugo's last work a proof that he is inspired by a demon:—"M. Victor Hugo has just written a volume entitled 'Religion et Religions.' The work is at the same time a poem and a philosophical treatise. From the description given of it by a Paris Correspondent, it is clearly nothing more or less than another monster iron chain, forged by this demon in human shape, with which men set free by the Saviour's death shall be more and more made slaves and be deprived of their redemption. The work is only of a hundred and fifty pages. There is a short preface:—'This book was commenced in 1870; it is finished in 1880. The year 1870 saw infallibility to the Papacy and Sedan to the Empire. What will 1880 do?' The poem is divided into five parts. In its very first page it enters upon the question of God, which it undertakes to solve. The rest from servile work on the Sunday is treated of in scoffing language. The idea of the god of vengeance and terror is ridiculed, and so is the idea of the God of mercy. The existence of the demon is a fable. Nothing remains for mankind, says the demon-inspired writer, but to admit the fact that there is a God, without inquiring too closely into his attributes." The insinuation that infallibility will prove the Satan of the Papacy, of course exposes a good deal of warmth, but what follows is slightly incoherent:—"Poor France! that is forced in this way, under the cry of "Liberty," to suffer so cruelly, to its own disgrace and to the outrage of God, the Creator and the Redeemer. Is there no power on earth that will rise up and burst through and destroy this system of tyranny, that is more oppressive to Christians than ever was the slavery suffered under the Mahomedans? Is Christendom to sit quiet, while God is so outraged?" Where is the "tyranny" if M. Victor Hugo writes a prosy poem? No one is forced to read it against his will.

Native Opinion has some sensible remarks on the proposal to strip the Town Hall of its statues:—There are a number of statues in the Town-hall, and we are sorry to observe that a daily contemporary has the bad taste to propose that they should be dragged out and erected in other places. "One should be placed at the junction of the Bandstand-road and the road leading to Apollo Bunder; another by the triple lamp-post opposite Church Gate Street Station; and two should be placed so as to stand at either end of the Oval." It cannot be denied that it would be an extremely cheap and handy way to provide the public thoroughfares with statues by robbing the Town Hall of its ornaments, but it is another question whether such a proceeding would be just or expedient? Lord Elphinstone is dead and cannot be consulted, but Sir Bartle Frere who is still alive, and whose statue it is also proposed to drag out, would probably think its position in the Town-hall to be more honourable, and secure from injuries than in an open place where it might be bespattered with crows, or treated even worse, as every one knows who remembers that Lady Frere's bust had been wantonly pulled down by some miscreants in the Victoria Gardens, and had afterwards to be restored. Although the statues of royal personages are exposed, they are looked after, and a railing protects that of the queen; but it is not likely that other statues would be so guarded, especially if there were to be half a dozen of them. Should any proposal be made to remove the statue of the first Parsee Baronet, or of the Honble Juggernath Sunkersett to some exposed place, we have no doubt that their heirs would enter an emphatic protest against such a removal which they would consider a degradation.

THE Bombay Review.—Of the three great ship Canals now in contemplation, the one through France, intended to connect the Atlantic and Mediterranean by termini at the two ports of Bordeaux and Naobonne, has just been denounced by Mons. Leroy Beaulieu as utterly unserviceable to France, and of benefit only to England and Holland. This gentleman may have studied the subject with great profoundness on most points; but we fail to perceive much wisdom in his views on the financial aspect of the undertaking. Would the commerce of France gain nothing by such a Canal? Would France gain nothing by tolls drawn from the maritime traffic of other nations? To instance the Suez Canal as just such a failure, as might be expected to overtake that of France, betrays simply great carelessness of expression. Can the Suez Canal, which has more than tripled its revenues within nine years be honestly pronounced a failure? If in the first nine years of its existence this Canal has realized so great an increase, is it not reasonable to expect that the next nine years will double that increase? No sound reasoning can be made to show that the proposed Canal through Languedoc has not a sufficiently fair probability of becoming not only a financial success but politically of incalculable benefit both to France and England. That, the revenues of the latter would be derived in a great measure from English commerce is beyond question; and when it is remembered that not only the eastward bound steamers, now using the Suez Canal, would for the most part use this one also, but that a very much greater number of vessels engaged in the Mediterranean trade only would avail themselves of the convenience it offered, the amount of traffic might fairly be called immense. The cost of construction is estimated at 22 millions sterling, upon which the French Government is asked to supply a guarantee. There is nothing more in this demand than that Government would do well to comply with. The project has but that little that is speculative in it, so clear is the certainty of its proving remunerative when once fairly in operation.

GENERAL VINOY, whom the fervid Republicanism of the new Minister of War drove out of the Chancellorship of the Order of the Legion of Honour in order to give the post to General Faidherbe, died the 29th April after a few day's illness. He was in his eightieth year. Few general officers of the French army were better known or more highly appreciated and to his dying day the late Lord Clyde kept up a steady correspondence with his old comrade of Crimean days. Unlike most French soldiers of distinction, he was not bred to the profession. He was originally intended for the Church, but at twenty-three he left the seminary and enlisted as a private in the Garde Royale. He was made a serjeant in 1826, and the conquest of Algeria enabled him to win his epaulets. He was a major-general at Sebastopol, and commanded a brigade in Canrobert's division; he took a leading and brilliant part in the assault on the Malakoff, and commanded a division in the campaign of 1859. In 1865 he was made a Senator, and placed on the Retired List; but he was recalled to active command after the first disasters that marked the campaign of 1870, and his appointment turned out providential. Immediately after Sedan he contrived, with his whole division of twelve thousand men, with all their guns, baggage, and impedimenta, to give the Prussians the go-by. The dexterity and skill with which he managed to slip through the fingers of his three hundred and fifty thousand pursuers is one of the most remarkable feats on record in modern warfare. He brought his men to Paris, where, with the Breton Mobiles, they formed the most solid element of the defence. To say nothing of the battles round Paris, military men whose opinion carries weight express their conviction that if all the troops concerned in the defence had been only half as efficient and well commanded as the Division Vinoy, the blockade of Paris would have been broken through. How he became Governor of Paris and tried to prevent the outbreak of the Commune after the capitulation had been signed is a matter of history which still involves a question brulante. People who blame him for not having acted more vigorously fail to realise the fact that the force at his command was numerically inadequate to disarm a multitude of three hundred thousand National Guards. He took a very active part in the suppression of the Commune, and, though many think that a more direct attack would have been successful, yet it must be borne in mind that his plan had the merit of sparing the lives of his own men.

PULMONARY consumption consecutive to an inflammation of the chest had reduced me to such a state that medicines were ordered to me by physicians rather to give me security than with the hope of a prolongation of life. Happily one of them advised me to use Grimault's Syrup of Hypophosphite of Soda. For two months past I have been taking that medicine, and my situation has been so remarkably improved, that I may henceforth consider my recovery as certain. E. DOUSTRE (Bristol).

The following verdict was recorded—"That the death of the deceased was caused by convulsions."

THE VOLUNTEER FETE AT THE VICTORIA GARDENS.

A VERY successful al fresco entertainment promoted by the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps was held on Saturday evening at the Victoria Gardens. The affair owed its origin to the fact that the band fund of the corps required to be strengthened. The plan of holding a grand fete in these beautiful gardens was admirably adapted for bringing about the desired result, and success was assured when the Committee, with the energetic honorary secretaries, Captain and Adjutant Stokes, and Captain Tennent, issued the programme of the evening's amusement. The gardens on the occasion were brilliantly illuminated, naturally by the moon and artificially by hundreds of small lamps and pretty Chinese lanterns. The centre avenue was fringed on each side with a line of light, and at intervals were placed pretty devices composed of numerous yellow lights, while here and there amid the dark foliage the Chinese lanterns glimmered softly, their variegated colours lending a charming prettiness to the scene. The arched entrance to the gardens and the fountain were also brilliantly lighted up, and altogether the illuminations had a remarkably fine effect. In the open space around the fountain a temporary stage had been erected and Mr. Dave Carson, Miss Clara Stanley and their companies delighted the visitors with acting and singing. In another part of the gardens a "floor" was laid for dancing, and here young men and maidens, and, it may be added, elderly men and children footed it merrily to the exhilarating strains of the Volunteer band whose untiring efforts on this occasion deserve great praise. Dancing, or "the light fantastic" as it is expressively called in the hand bill advertising the fete, seemed to be very popular. Some of the terpsichorean movements were not particularly light, but many of them inclined towards the fantastic. Then there was another amusement—Mrs. Jarley's wax works. That estimable lady who bore a striking resemblance to Mr. Dave Carson, had on view several very life like figures, so life like indeed, that their eyes showed a tendency to blink and their facial muscles to twitch. Shifting page, too, is altogether a singular and unheard of proceeding on the part of wax figures, but Mrs. Jarley's effigies did this kind of thing in the most natural manner. Lord Lytton, Sir Richard Temple, Mr. Parnell, young Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Pheroseshah Mehta, who was described as the "orator of the Town Council" were represented, and the "doubles" were the source of considerable amusement. Listening to the music, watching the theatrical performances, visiting the "wax works exhibition," dancing, and taking refreshments, café fashion, the visitors took their pleasure anything but sadly. For those—and they were many—who preferred assorted pairs preferred strolling through the leafy, shadow-decked alleys discoursing, presumably, upon the beauty of the gardens and the night, the entertainment was in every way charming. One enthusiastic gentleman whose time, probably, had been spent somewhat after this fashion was heard to observe that the scene reminded him of the "Arabian Nights." The scene was as interesting as well as a beautiful one. Such a variety of costume and feature it would be difficult to find outside Bombay. In the crowd standing and sitting around the dancers and the theatrical party were Europeans, Hindus, Parsees, Mahomedans, Persians, and Chinese, all wearing distinctive dresses, some of the latter looking on with keen interest and apparently cracking quiet jokes among themselves. Shortly before midnight there was a magnificent display of fireworks upon a grand scale. As the last rocket fell like a shower of brilliant gems, leaving behind it in the minds of the spectators that curious momentary feeling of depression which is nearly always produced when vivid and beautiful lights die out, the great majority of the visitors moved homewards having, no doubt, heartily enjoyed the evening's entertainment. The arrangements were admirably carried out, and reflect great credit on all concerned. Messrs. C. Bounevialla and Co. provided the refreshments and, we believe, gave great satisfaction.

THE LATE ACCIDENT AT THE NEW PRINCE OF WALES SPINNING AND WEAVING MILLS.

THE adjourned inquest into the circumstances connected with the deaths of Soba Daccoo and Govind, who died from the effects of the above accident was resumed on Saturday last by the Coroner, Dr. Blaney, at his bungalow, Clare Road, Byculla.

Mr. Tobin, solicitor, appeared to watch the proceedings on behalf of the owner and engineer of the mills, and Mr. Cleveland was present on behalf of Government.

The following evidence was recorded. Bapoo Shaik Ahmed deposed:—I am a fireman in the Prince of Wales Spinning and Weaving Mill. On the 12th instant, I went to the mill at 5 o'clock in the morning About 5-45 a. m. I was standing in front of the boilers when I saw the water standing at one half of the gauge. Suddenly No. 2 boiler burst and I was scalded. One or two minutes before the boiler burst one of the deceased, named Soba Daccoo, went up on top of the boilers to get a drink of water, and he was there when the boiler burst. The other deceased, Govind was engaged during the morning in cleaning the top of the boilers, but I do not know whether he was there when the boiler burst. I ran out into the compound as soon as the explosion occurred, and returned almost immediately, and a police took me away to the J. J. Hospital, where I heard of the death of Soba, Daccoo, and Govind. A European engineer was in charge of the boilers. I do not know his name. I saw him near the boilers about 8 a.m. He remained about five or ten minutes and then went away. He did not come there again before the explosion occurred. He came to the mill but he only came and did nothing. Mr. Bhaojee, the foreman of the mechanics shop, came to the boilers about ten minutes before the explosion occurred, when I showed him the gauge glass. He said nothing and went away. Nobody else went there. The boilers are fed from the tank on the premises. We don't use Vehar water for the boilers except on the day when the mill has been standing. In some months the mill is closed on two Sundays, and in some months on one Sunday. Three boilers were working on the day the explosion occurred. The feed valve of the exploded boiler was fully open, while those of the other two were partially opened. I have been employed by the Prince of Wales Mill for a year, and have been a fireman during the whole time. There is no head fireman. I know when a boiler is working with deficiency of water. I know it from the gauge glass. If the water goes down in the boiler, I would go and report it to the engineer. I have never seen the water deficient in our boilers. The exploded boiler was cleaned out by the engineer, six days ago. It was cleaned out with files. About two or three baskets-full of salt, each basket containing about half a maund was removed. The boilers were at that time in course of examination by the boiler Inspector. No. 2 boiler was not cleaned afterwards. It was in constant work from the time of the inspection until the explosion occurred. I have never seen anything put into the boilers to prevent incrustation. One or two minutes before No. 2 boiler exploded, I observed that 90 pounds of steam were indicated in the glass. I cannot read English figures, but can read a gauge glass as I can a clock. I have seen the gauge glass standing below 90 pounds but never above it. I saw it go above 90 pounds I should fire less. I should be fined if I allowed the pressure to go above 90 pounds. The water in No. 3 and No. 4 boilers was above the indicator, and in No. 2 it was on a level with the indicator, and for that reason the stopcock was kept fully open. I know how to regulate the quantity of water in the boilers. When the water is rushing freely into the boiler it lifts the valve and makes a noise. It was running freely into boiler No. 2 at the time of the explosion. The man here present is the engineer of the mill; he says his name is Samuel Freeborough

Bhanjee Dawraj deposed: I am the foreman of the mechanics shop of the Prince of Wales Spinning and Weaving mill, and have been employed since the starting of the mill four-and-a-half years ago. I do whatever the engineer tells me, I have nothing to do with the mill boilers. On the 12th instant I went to mill at 8 a.m. as usual. I started the engine a quarter of an hour afterwards. Before going to the engine house I passed through the boiler-room and asked one Bhikoo, a night fireman, if the boilers were all right, and he said they were. I did not examine the amount of steam. Bhicoo was then in charge of the boilers. Mr. Freeborough is the engineer in charge of the mill. I first saw him that morning about half an hour after I started the engines. He was then in the old boiler house where there are no boilers. It is the duty of the engineer to start the engines and I do so every day as I have been told by Mr. Freeborough to do so. I have served in the Dhurumsey Poonjabhoy mill. A regularly engaged engine-driver started the engines in that mill. I went to the boiler house again during that morning about ten minutes before the explosion occurred. I went there to ascertain the amount of steam and water. I found the water gauge glass standing half way and the steam indicated about 90 pounds. I then went to the frame department, and while there I heard the noise of an explosion. I immediately came to the boiler house, and saw the place full of steam. When the steam cleared away I went on the top of the boilers, and saw the deceased, Govind, going on boiler No. 1. He was scalded all over the body and was dead. I afterwards saw the deceased Soba Daccoo lying between boiler No. 1 and No. 2. He was buried under a lot of bricks and mortar. I had him removed, when taken out he was dead. He was also extensively scalded. His head was buried, but one shoulder was visible. When I went to the boiler room just before the explosion the engineer was not there. I do not know where he was. I remained in the boiler room until the arrival of the police, and shut off the steam from boilers Nos. 3 and 4. I did not touch the feed cocks and do not know whether anybody else touched them. I am not a certificated engineer under the Boiler Act.

Dr. Sidney Smith having given formal evidence as to the cause of death.

Bhanjee Dawraj was recalled and said:—Mr Freeborough has been the engineer of the mill for the last four months. I do not know that he was ever absent from work for a whole day. He presented himself for examination for a certificate under the Boiler Inspection Act. He was absent from the mill on that occasion from 7 a. m., to 2 p. m. The previous day he told me that he was going up for an examination, and I understood from that that I was to take charge of the engines and boilers, and I did take charge of the engines and boilers during his absence. On a previous occasion, about a month before, I took charge of the engines and boilers during Mr. Freeborough's absence. When Mr. Freeborough goes to his meals the fireman are in charge of the boilers. Mr. Freeborough does not tell me when he is going to his meals. He absents himself for about half hour when he goes to his meals.

Bhicoo Babajee deposed:—I am a night fireman in the Prince of Wales Spinning and Weaving Mills. I go to my work at 6 p. m. and am relieved at 5-30 the following morning. I went to work on the evening of the 11th instant about 5-45 as usual. Three boilers were then at work, Nos. 2, 3, and 4. The mill was then at work and was stopped at 6 p. m. Fireman Toolseyram gave me charge of the boilers. The man here present, who says his name is Samuel Freeborough is the engineer of the mill. He was present in the boiler house when I received charge of the boilers. The fires were di

PROSPECTUS.

THIS Company has been formed for the purpose of establishing in the North-West Provinces of India and Oude Factories for the Manufacture and Sale of Pure Transparent Ice, and for the Manufacture and sale of Aerated Waters, and the Sale or Licensing of Refrigerating and Cooling Apparatus, Ice Safes, &c.

A contract has been entered into with The General Ice Factory Company, Limited, of London, for a grant of the sole right to manufacture, sell, lease, or license within the North-West Provinces of India and Oude the patented Machinery and processes for the Manufacture of Ice and Refrigerating and Cooling Apparatus, the property of the said Company, who have further consented to erect at Agra, Allahabad, and Lucknow respectively, Factories fitted with such Machinery and each capable of producing Ten Tons of Pure Transparent Ice, in large blocks, every 24 hours' continuous working, and so constructed as to be capable of extension from time to time, the sum required for each of these Factories fitted complete, including Buildings, Machinery, Plant, &c., is £24,000 for the first instalment, and £16,000 in fully paid up shares of the Company, for Royalties, Bonuses, Interest, &c.

Other Factories will be erected on similar terms and conditions at other places as the Directors may select from time to time.

The calculations made of the probable Revenue to be derived from the sale of Ice, based upon an average selling price of one Rupee per pound—nearly equal to three farthings—after allowing for the cost of production, as well as Debenture Interest, Working Charges, Agency, Management, Depreciation, &c., &c., the Directors anticipate that very large profits will be available for Dividends, exclusive of any income derived from the Manufacture and sale of Aerated Waters, Refrigerators, &c.

The Directors provide the funds requisite for the purchase of the Patent Rights, Erection of the Machinery, Buildings, &c., and now invite subscription for 480 Mortgage Debentures of £100 each, bearing 5 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly, and redeemable by annual drawings of not less than five per cent., commencing on 31st March, 1882.

Applications for these Debentures will be the various Factories, the Machinery and Plant thereon, and those to be constructed, together with the other property of the Company to Charles Connors, Esq., and Major Strutt, who have consented to act as Trustees for the Debenture-holders.

Subscribers for Debentures may have a permanent interest in this Company. The General Ice Factory Company, Limited, have agreed to make over to Subscribers for Debentures by way of Bonus five shares in this Company, for every Debenture subscribed for, and further undertake to give to those whose Debentures are drawn for payment, the option of purchasing such shares in respect of each Debenture, thus eventually giving the Debent re-holders equally interested with the Debenture-holders in the profits of the Company. All Debenture-holders are further entitled to subscribe at par for any Debentures by the Company for extensions.

The Company will involve no liability on the holders, as they form the payme t of the contract entered into between the Company and The General Ice Factory Company, Limited, a copy of which duly registered with the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies.

The Preliminary Contract entered into is dated April 1st 1880, and is made between The General Ice Factory Company, Limited, of the one part, and George Pickford, as Trustee for and on behalf of this Company, of the other part, which, together with the Memorandum and Articles of Association, and copy of the Debenture Bond, can be seen at the Registered Offices of the Company, or at the Offices of The General Ice Factory Company, Limited, London, Bombay.

The rate of 5 per cent. per annum on Debentures runs from the date of payment of the amount in full.

Remittance to London.

Forms and Prospectuses can be obtained at the Banks hereinmentioned or at the Office of the Ice Factory Company, Limited, India Branch, Elphinstone Circle, Bombay.

Should any less number of Debentures be applied for, the amount will be returned to the applicants in full.

Coupons for Half-yearly will be attached to each Debenture.
